Early Childhood Mental Health

Early Childhood Mental Health is defined as healthy cognitive and emotional development for every child. It is development that provides the foundation for learning even prior to preschool. It can be thought of as healthy social-emotional development in very young children. Children who live in chaotic environments, who have cognitive or sensory impairments or have difficulty establishing relationships with adults are at risk of developing long lasting behavioral problems or social problems. Identifying difficulties early, in the 0-6 year age range, and providing families with the proper assessments and interventions can make the difference in the child's life. The objective of the Early Childhood Mental Health consultation and training is to provide the assessments and interventions for the child, family and care provider.
